

Terms & Conditions

Omnitude is conducting its offer to purchase ECOM Tokens as communicated in its Whitepaper under the regulatory framework of the UK ("Crowdsale").

ECOM Tokens are utility tokens - a token whose value results from speculation in the asset and the demand for their use in Omnitude - and as such are not presented as transferable securities.

Participation

All participants in the Crowdsale must be over 18 years old and legally entitled to contribute.

Participants must be resident in the UK or a country where you are legally entitled to contribute.

Participants will be required to register and agree to the terms and conditions of the Crowdsale, including but not limited to, self-certification. All participants will be required to acknowledge the high risk nature of contributing and to accept, where applicable, that it is their responsibility to seek advice from an authorised person who specialises in advising on virtual coins, unlisted shares and securities under the relevant law.

All token purchases are final, and you, as a contributor, ensure that you are able to pass the KYC process. No refunds will be offered to anyone acting outside of these terms.

All participants are responsible for their own financial and tax matters in relation to the purchase of ECOM Tokens and should obtain independent financial and tax advice.

The Crowdsale is not being managed as a regulated investment and Omnitude is not authorised to carry out regulated activities.

Omnitude recommends that all participants only purchase virtual currency (Ether), through authorised currency exchanges.
